DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
Formerly part of Glasgow, this is a small <sup>one</sup>two and one half story house, originally of frame construction with beaded clapboard. It was moved to its present location in the 1900's and restored with some alterations in the early 1950's. The original clapboard has been covered with brick on the north and south facades, and with aluminum siding on the east and west ends. The steep pitched gabled roof has three dormers on each side. The original entrance is in the center of the south facade which is now the rear of the house. On the six bay north facade are two additional entrances, although the original fenestration has been altered by reversing the position of the window and door on the northwest corner. A small gabled entrance wing has been added on the west and a screened porch added to the east. The interior layout consists of three adjoining rooms on the first floor, with the hall and original staircase running parallel to the south facade. There are three fireplaces, one on each end of the house and one in the center room. The chimney was removed from this center fireplace, however. The fireplace on the east end was added when the house was restored, and the mantel molding was moved here from the center room. The original pine floors were removed from the downstairs but remain in the upper story. The doors are original but the old hardware has been removed. The house has 8 x 12 oak sills and 3 x 8 gum floor joists.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This house was originally one of the wings of nearby "Glasgow" and was built around 1760. It was moved to its present location in the 1900's and used as a tenant house for the Tubman farm until purchased by the present owners, who restored the house in the early 1950's.
